Sir

I had the honour to receive Your Excellency's Letter of the 1st Inst. this evening.

No Orders were received by me to supply the Troops under Your Command with forage until I met them on my route to this place. Arrangements, however, had been made previous to my departure from Frankliniton to furnish them With One days Supply at Manrys and M'Arthurs, if You Marched that Way, and on the road to those Posts from Cincinnati none Can be procured in advance. — Should You determine upon passing through Frankliniton One days Supply Can be had there, and Hay and some grain at Worthington Nine miles on this side —

It is impossible that I should have the pleasure of meeting You at Springfield. —

His Excellency
Governor Shelby.

Dear Sir,

At the request of Major Barret I mention him to you for the command of a Battalion — I should be glad he could be favoured — When he was appointed last Spring he was at considerable expence in fixing himself — I believe he would be acceptable to the most of the Companies raised in my Brigade.

I am Dear Sir

Dear Sir,

The General desires me to say that you will find a large flat and many small craft as well as the Gun boats, which will be all sufficient to bring down the whole of the Article of Stores baggage &c and wishes you if possible to have it all brought on this side (as this is about 9 miles from the enemy) and it can be disposed of in a little time, without [illegible] difficulty.

Respectfully
