Dear Fellow Kentuckians:

Four years ago, on the 85th anniversary of the ratification of the 19th amendment to the Constitution, the Office of the Secretary of State presented a publication to honor the achievement of women in the Commonwealth. That publication, inspired by a 1995 report issued by then Secretary of State Bob Babbage, was intended to remind us of the great history of women leading our state and to guide women to further involvement. Since that last publication, Kentucky has held multiple elections, which have given Kentucky women an excellent opportunity to increase their number among Kentucky's elected officials. This report reflects on the changes in female elected officials and profiles some of our latest high-ranking leaders.

Time and time again, outstanding Kentuckians prove themselves willing to answer the call of public service. It is our hope that the stories of these successful women will inspire others to answer their own call. Because of the foundation laid by these and many other great female leaders, new doors of opportunity are opening daily. The number of women elected to office in our state is constantly growing in numbers. Since the last publication, our Commonwealth has seen gains in the number of women elected to the General Assembly as well as growth in certain offices at the county level. I am pleased to report that more women are participating in public service and at more influential levels than ever before in our Commonwealth. However, despite this growth, we still have more work ahead of us.

It is with great pleasure that we present this publication to honor the achievements of women in Kentucky. We hope, in some small way, this resource will serve as a guide to young women, with the possibility that they might dedicate themselves to a life of public service, so that one day, we will have women fully and fairly represented in every community throughout Kentucky.

Sincerely

Trey Grayson

Acknowledgments

In particular, we are thankful for the guidance from Glenda Woods, former Executive Director of the Kentucky Commission on Women and Sylvia Lovely, Executive Director of the Kentucky League of Cities.

For providing a new dimension to the project, which highlights the remarkable contributions military women have provided to our Commonwealth, we are indebted to Pam Luce, Women Veterans Coordinator of the Kentucky Department of Veterans Affairs and John Trowbridge of the Kentucky Historical Society.

We are also grateful to former Secretary of State Bob Babbage and his staff for beginning this journey. We hope that future Secretaries will follow the important path that he laid.

A special thanks to the Office of the Secretary of State staff who worked so diligently to ensure this project was realized. Thank you to Alexa Asher, Sarah Billiter, Samantha Carroll, James Conner, Allen Eskridge, Angela Evans, Les Fugate, Hugh Derek Hall, Thomas Roberts, Drew Trimble, Lillian Troop, Stuart Warren and especially, Kristin Shattuck, the project coordinator, for an outstanding job. You should all be very proud of the impact this guide will have on future generations of Kentucky women.

Finally, we would like to thank all of the women listed in this book who have given of themselves to affect the cities, counties, and state in which we live. It is because of their dedication and hard work that opportunities for women are increasing throughout the Commonwealth of Kentucky. ■

Martha Layne Collins

Why did you decide to volunteer in others' campaigns?

There's always been that kind of interest, and I guess it just evolved. I keep encouraging women to get involved in other campaigns if they want to get into politics and into public service. They really need to get in on the ground floor and see how it works, how it happens, and how you make things happen. Sometimes women want to get higher up in the ranks immediately, but that isn't always the best thing. I took pride in helping in other people's campaigns. I would get sandwiches and make coffee, and I knew exactly how many bumper stickers went to each county. I knew all the nitty gritty and that really helps you when you're running a campaign.

How did you move from volunteering in the campaigns of others, to running campaigns of your own?

In 1975, I had been working in a lot other people's campaigns and I had become the Democratic National Committee woman. I wasn't sure whether I wanted to remain a teacher or to go and work at Democratic headquarters, so I took a leave of absence to try a year at the headquarters. As Democratic National Committee woman, I continued to help with other people's campaigns, and, in 1975, there were four people running for Lt. Governor, several of which had asked me to help them. My family always had supper together, and we were talking about something and I said, "Well, so and so asked me to work in their campaign and so and so offered me this to work in their campaign."

To that my husband said that "I think you've traveled enough miles and put in enough hours for someone else. I think its time that you either run or just come on home." And that was his way of really saying, "Why don't you run for something?" So I ran for Clerk of the Court of Appeals. It was a job of management, a job of administration, and of doing what's right with timeliness and good PR. Apparently,

Timeline of Women's Progress

1838	1853	1867	1870
KY is the first state to permit women's suffrage of any kind giving property-owning widows and single women the right to vote.	Lucy Stone, a national pioneer for women's rights, delivers three suffrage speeches at the Masonic Hall in Louisville.	The first women's suffrage association in KY is briefly established in Hardin County.	Ada Kepley graduates from Union College of Law in Chicago, becoming the first female graduate from an accredited law school.

“Women, especially, should not wait to be asked to serve; they must step forward now and make a difference in their communities with their special brand of leadership.”

we did a good job because there were a lot of attorneys that encouraged me to run for a higher office. So as the story goes, I left teaching, became a National Committee woman, ran for Clerk of the Court of Appeals, four years later I ran and was elected Lieutenant Governor, and then, in 1983, I became the first woman to serve as Governor of the State of Kentucky. That’s a pretty swift move for a woman.

What do you feel has been your greatest accomplishment?

I think my greatest and most exciting accomplishment was when I heard that we had landed Toyota for Kentucky. I knew it was going to be good for the state. The tobacco sales were going down, the horse industry is cyclical, and coal mining had the acid rain problem. So, we focused on economic development, and we targeted automotive. We needed manufacturing because manufacturing paid more money for jobs per capita than some of the other jobs that we had. We were competing with 20 other states for Toyota in a tough competition. When you have competed with that many other states and when you get the call and they say, “You did it!” that’s pretty exciting! I’m sure that will be part of my legacy, and I hope it will be accompanied by education. I started the education reform because the key to more economic development, more jobs, more opportunities for our people for a better quality of life, is education. You must have a trained workforce for these companies. The key for the future of Kentucky is education. ■

Is there anything holding women back from participating in public service?

I don't buy into the misconception that something is holding women back or keeping women out of public service. Just because they are not in public service does not mean that someone is keeping them out. The only thing that is keeping women out of public service is their wanting to participate. It is perfectly plausible that many women feel that they could make a better contribution to society as a whole by raising their families.

That said, anyone can accomplish anything for which they are willing to work hard, regardless of gender. The key to success for anyone is not that you are smart or talented but diligent and a hard-worker. Anytime that you accept that something or someone is holding you back, you have handicapped yourself.

How did you earn the respect of your peers in the Senate to become President Pro Tempore?

I earned respect through diligence and hard work. I study and read every law. Some people can look through a bill once and understand it, but I have to read it, research it, and discuss it to really know what it is saying. Because I took the time and effort to learn the law, everyone knew that I knew what was going on. From there I had confidence in myself and what I was trying to do. If you want to earn the respect of others and move up in a career of public service, you have to do the work.

My mother taught me about public service as she was a pioneer in public health. She was a doctor in the 1940s when not many women had their MD, and she could have made a lot of money but chose public service. She was the second public health officer in Kentucky, and she worked hard to increase the quality of life for the people of this state. Despite all of her achievements in public service, when asked about her greatest accomplishment, she said that she was most proud of raising good children. ■

Guidelines to get involved in your community

The role Kentucky women can play in improving their communities is limitless. Small towns and larger cities across the Commonwealth are always in need of good public servants to assist them in conquering issues such as homelessness, drug abuse, and domestic violence. However, despite the prevalent need of public servants, some women are still leery of beginning their community service involvement.

The following are guidelines to follow if you are interested in community involvement:

- Do a personal inventory to find out how much time you can devote to the community, where your interests lie, what skills you possess, and to determine your passions.
- Search the web for volunteer opportunities in your community that fit your situation and personality. Try websites such as www.serviceleader.org and www.e-volunteering.org.
- Contact common community volunteer locations such as hospitals, food banks, homeless shelters, animal shelters, and nature parks. Also contact common volunteer organizations like the Red Cross, United Way, Habitat for Humanity, and Special Olympics.
- Join a board, club, or committee that specializes in community development such as Girl Scouts, Business and Professional Women, or your local Women's Club. Try to take on leadership roles in the organizations with which you become involved.

Perhaps some of the best recommendations for getting involved in your community may come from current community leaders such as our First Lady, Jane Beshear. Here are some tips to getting involved:

- Research the causes or issues important to you and look for a group that works with the issues about which you feel strongly.
- Consider the skills you have to offer. If you enjoy outdoor work, have a knack for teaching, or just enjoy interacting with people, you may want to look for volunteer work that would incorporate these aspects of your personality.
- When starting, do not over-commit your schedule...better to start out slowly and enjoy the experience.
- Volunteer or get involved as a family.

Overview of Leadership Kentucky

Leadership Kentucky, created in 1984 as a non-profit educational organization, brings together a selected group of people that possess a broad variety of leadership abilities, career accomplishments, and volunteer activities to gain insight into complex issues facing the state. Their goal is to prepare participants to take an active role in advancing the state for the common good. By fostering understanding of how the state's issues are interconnected, and by forging new relationships among community and regional leaders, Leadership Kentucky graduates bring a fresh and informed perspective to their communities and companies, serving as important participants in the unified effort to shape Kentucky's future.

Through a series of seven monthly, two-day sessions, held in various locations in the state, participants are educated about the state of Kentucky and its challenges. They meet and talk with Kentucky's current leaders and through a systematic educational program, explore the state's opportunities, needs and resources. Kentucky's rich cultural heritage and its unique diversity are woven throughout the curriculum that features the state's economy, education, health and human services, law and justice, and environment. In addition, Leadership Kentucky provides a thought-provoking experience focusing on the attributes of leadership and what it means to be a leader. By visiting various regions of the Commonwealth, the participants develop an enhanced view and a new meaning to the word community that spans the entire state.

"The particular challenge that I find that is gender-specific is the tremendous demand on time. While time is a precious commodity to everyone regardless of gender, I believe that it is particularly difficult for women to find enough extra time to do all the things that we are expected to do and, of course, that we want to do for our families and friends. Everything from baking cookies to entertaining to gardening to buying Christmas gifts must be tucked away in between the demands of a rigorous schedule. I believe that women are more conscious of clinging to these 'extras' than perhaps men might be. As a result, I believe that many of us sleep less and work more. However, I do not say that grudgingly; it is a labor of love intertwined with the labor of pride in which we engage professionally"

General Guidelines for Starting a New Business in Kentucky

1. Talk with an attorney, a CPA, or a consultant who specializes in small business creation in Kentucky. Also, there are many small business development groups throughout Kentucky that can offer assistance. These professionals can help you sort out what type of registration will be best for your business.
2. Select a business entity type (sole proprietor, partnership, corporation, or LLC), and register your business with the Kentucky Secretary of State. If you are a sole proprietorship, contact your local county clerk for registration information. You will need to register your sole proprietorship with the county clerk in each county that you do business. The Kentucky Secretary of State website is: <http://sos.ky.gov>.
3. Secure a local zoning license or certificate of occupancy from your local planning and zoning entity. This includes permits for any remodeling or construction of facilities as well as for any signs displaying your company name.
4. Obtain an Employer Identification Number (EIN) from the IRS. (Form SS-4) The IRS website is www.irs.gov/smallbiz. IRS/Kentucky information can be found at <http://www.irs.gov/businesses/small/article/0,,id=100736,00.html>.
5. Obtain city and/or county occupational business licenses. Contact your local revenue commission or county clerk. Be sure to check with all of the municipal entities where your primary place of business will be...especially if you live in a small city within a larger metropolitan area.
6. Contact the Kentucky Department of Revenue to determine which forms your business needs to file (especially if your business collects sales or use tax or has employees).
7. Contact and register with the Kentucky Department of Employment and Training if your business has employees. The Kentucky Department of Employment and Training website is: www.oet.ky.gov.
8. Determine if your business needs to acquire any special licenses. The Business Information Clearinghouse at the Kentucky Cabinet for Economic Development is a good place to start, or check the One-Stop Business Licensing index at the Kentucky Secretary of State website. Kentucky Secretary of State One-Stop Business Licensing website is: <http://sos.ky.gov>. The Business Information Clearinghouse website is: <http://www.thinkkentucky.com/kyedc/ebpermits.asp>.
9. Talk with a banking institution and an insurance carrier to determine your banking and liability insurance needs for your business.

You have had a long and successful career in public service. Where did your career begin, and how were you able to reach the position that you are in today?

That whole first year out of college for me, I was involved in the U.S. Senate race and governors race. I was at the very bottom. I was literally in the mail room. I thought it was a big deal when they gave me the keys to the station wagon to go to the post office because I was really at the bottom of the ladder. But I became fascinated by the process and began to understand that in public service you really can make a difference in people's lives and that sounds like a cliché but it's true. I made a decision early on that I would take every opportunity, and walk through every door that opened. I made the decision that I would never be limited in anyway because I was a woman and that I would push as hard as I could. If a door opened and someone asked me if I was prepared to take on a challenge, even if I wasn't, and deep inside I was concerned that I was not ready, I would say, "Absolutely, I can do that." I think that women cannot be timid about opportunities they receive. There were times when opportunities were presented to me that, frankly, I wasn't sure that I was ready for, but I decided that I just had to charge ahead and work as hard as I could work to learn and grow every time an opportunity came about. So every time I've had the opportunity, I've walked through the door.

How has the arena for women in public service changed over the years, and what needs to happen in the future to promote continued progress?

My mother's generation would have never dreamed that a woman could be on the Supreme Court. This generation will be the first generation that sees no barriers in what you can do because of the trails that have been blazed by other women. Yet, in Kentucky, we still have so far to go. I talk a lot around the state to young women and even if I'm in groups where there are young men and young women, I always single out a message to the young women: we don't have enough young women choosing careers in the public arena to change those numbers. We've got to get more young women thinking that even if they don't run for office, they have to become more engaged in the public process. Kentucky has so many important challenges, difficult challenges, which will take ALL of our people to solve. That's not partisan. We need young republican women and young democratic women and young independent women getting engaged. And the first step is getting engaged in the process of voting. More than half of our registered voters are women. If they were all engaged in the process, they could determine the future of the Commonwealth, but only about half of them are voting in a presidential year. Those are the women who we have to reach out to and convince that their voice does make a difference. Somehow, many women in Kentucky think their voice doesn't matter. I know that Secretary Grayson is very committed to civic engagement and improving civic engagement and we have got to continue that initiative to get more women to understand that their voice does matter and makes a difference. ■

The Kentucky Women Veterans Program

Research has shown that women veterans are more likely to be unemployed, less likely to be enrolled in VA healthcare, and less likely to receive compensation for their service-connected disabilities than male veterans. In March 2005, the Kentucky General Assembly, under the influence of such staggering evidence, passed legislation that created The Women Veteran's Program within the Kentucky Department of Veterans Affairs. This program's mission is aimed at helping Kentucky's women veterans obtain access to federal and state veteran's services. The primary components of the program fall under six major categories: Advocacy and Public Awareness, Collaboration, Research and Information Dissemination, Education, Honor and Recognition, and Facilities. All women who served in the United States Armed Forces or in forces incorporated as part of the United States Armed Forces and who were discharged under conditions other than dishonorable are eligible to receive assistance.

The Commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Veterans' Affairs has designated Pamela Cypert, as the Women Veterans Coordinator for the Commonwealth. She can be reached toll free at (888) 724-7683 or via email at pamela.cypert@ky.gov.

The Women Veterans Coordinator will collaborate with federal, state, and local agencies on issues related to women veterans. These issues include items such as performing outreach to improve women veterans' awareness of eligibility for federal and state veterans' services and benefits, assessing the needs of women veterans with respect to benefits and services, reviewing initiatives designed to address the needs of Kentucky's women veterans, making recommendations to the Commissioner to improve benefits and services, and incorporating women veterans' issues in strategic planning.

Lelia Jeanette Jones Busler

The modern American idea of the Korean War is greatly influenced by "M*A*S*H," the popular novel, movie, and television program of the 70's and 80's. The fictional 4077th Mobile Army Surgical Hospital was based on the wartime experiences of Dr. H. Richard Hornberger, a surgeon in the 8055th Mobile Army Surgical Hospital (MASH), writing under the pseudonym Richard Hooker.

Barbara Walters becomes the first female to anchor a network evening newscast. Legislation sponsored by Representative Mae Street Kidd passes, closing a dark chapter of Kentucky History by ratifying the 13th, 14th and 15th amendments to the U.S. Constitution.	Sandra Day O'Connor becomes the first female Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Kentucky's connection with the real-life Korean War MASH unit, nicknamed the Eight-O-Double Nickel, was Lelia Jeanette Jones Busler, then a young Army Nurse Corps captain. Busler served in the 8055th from July 1951 to January 1952. By the time of her retirement from the military in 1973, Colonel Busler's military career had spanned nearly three decades, the Korean War being a small, but memorable part of her illustrious career.

Lelia Jeanette Jones was born on November 6, 1921, in Irvine, Estill County, Kentucky. She graduated from Irvine City High School on May 18, 1939. Lelia graduated from the 36-month program at Middletown Hospital School for Nurses in Middletown, Ohio, on February 28, 1943, and became a registered nurse on April 2.

Lelia applied for admission into the Army Nurse Corps on April 20. Initially rejected, she attained the Corps' minimum weight requirement by eating bananas. She also applied for enrollment in the Red Cross Nursing Service and was appointed on November 24. She was accepted into the ANC on March 10, 1945, and left for Fort Knox on April 8.

Second Lieutenant Lelia J. Jones completed her Basic Training Course at Fort Knox on May 3, 1945, and became a general duty nurse at the post hospital. She moved up the ranks quickly, being promoted to the rank of first lieutenant on April 8, 1948, and in February 1949, began her first overseas tour of duty.

Lelia's new assignment was with the 14th U.S. Army Field Hospital. While serving with the 14th Field Hospital, Jones became ill and, on February 24, 1951, was evacuated to the Medical Holding Detachment of the 361st Station Hospital in Tokyo for hospitalization and treatment. During her recovery, Lelia was promoted to captain. Shortly thereafter, she was ordered to report as a general duty nurse to the 8055th Mobile Army Surgical Hospital (MASH), nicknamed the "Double Nickel," at Uijongbu, Korea.

Captain Lelia Jones' tour of duty included stints at the 8168th U.S. Army Hospital at Yokohama, Japan, U.S. Army Hospital at Fort Campbell, at Fort Clayton in Panama, Rodriguez Army Hospital, Fort Brooke, Puerto Rico, Army Hospital at Fort Riley, Kansas, and the 2nd MASH located at Fort Bragg, North Carolina.

She attended the Advanced Nursing Administration Course at Fort Sam Houston, Texas during September 1957. Also throughout her military career, Lelia took college courses while assigned at various Army posts, including Kansas State College, University of North Carolina, North Carolina State College of Agriculture and Engineering, and the University of Maryland. She completed her associate's degree on November 18, 1958.

On April 8, 1959, Captain Jones was promoted to the rank of major and was assigned to the 97th General Hospital in Frankfurt, Germany and served as Head Nurse of the Female Surgical Ward and the Male Medical Ward. She then went on to serve at the 345th Surgical Hospital at Fort Rucker, Alabama and Weed Army Hospital at Fort Irwin, California, where she served as chief of Nurs-

Lelia was later assigned to the Army Hospital at Fort Campbell, Kentucky as the assistant chief nurse. While at Fort Campbell, she was once again sent to Brooke Army Hospital at Fort Sam Houston, this time to attend the chief orientation course and upon completion of the course was appointed acting chief nurse of Nursing Services. Later, while assigned to Reynolds Army Hospital at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, Lelia was promoted to the rank of Colonel. She seemed to be on the fast track in the military; however, due to her on-going battle with Chronic Obstructive Pulmonary Disease (COPD), which had started while she was serving in Korea during the war, she made the decision to retire from the military. On June 30, 1973, after 28 years of honorable service, Colonel Lelia J. Busler retired from the U.S. Army Nurse Corps. ■

Anna Mac Clarke

Anna Mac Clarke was born Anna Mack Mitchel on June 20, 1919, in Lawrenceburg, Kentucky. On May 28, 1937, she was awarded a diploma from Lawrenceburg High School, indicating she had completed the course of study for the Colored High School. Anna was one of only three black children to graduate that year.

Anna entered Kentucky State College in the latter part of 1937. She quickly became the assistant to Betty “Ma” White, the housemother of Chandler Hall. She did administrative work in the office of the Dean of Women, Ann Heartwell Hunter, and The Kentucky Thorobred, the school’s newspaper, brought her on as a staff member. In December 1939, she became a member of the Alpha Pi Chapter of the Delta Sigma Theta Sorority. She made several strong connections at Kentucky State while participating in sorority activities as well as intramural athletics. Some of her closest friends and classmates at Kentucky State would go on to achieve prominence in the fight for civil rights and high level government positions. These individuals included Whitney Young Jr., social worker, educator and executive director of the National Urban League, and Ersa Hines Poston, president of the New York State Civil Service Commission.

On June 10, 1941, Anna received her diploma from Kentucky State College, where she received her bachelor’s degree in sociology and economics along with a certificate of Sunday training school. With her newly earned degree in hand, Anna returned to Lawrenceburg and was disappointed by not being able to find a good job. In Kentucky during the 1940’s, as well as other parts of the country, racism, legal and de facto, was a way of life. Anna moved to Cincinnati, Ohio, with the hopes of finding a better paying and more rewarding career. In Cincinnati, Anna got a job at the Nash House

Community Center as the recreation director, but she was still unsatisfied.

War came to the United States on December 7, 1941, when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor. It would be another ten months before Anna would become a member of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps (WAACs). Early in 1942, Anna received training from the US Army Fifth Service Command's Signal Corps School, which was located in Cincinnati. Anna decided on October 3, 1942 to answer the call of Mary McLeod Bethune for "One Black WAAC" and joined the All-Volunteer Women's Army Auxiliary Corps. She was sent to the auxiliary training program at the First Women's Army Auxiliary Corps Training Center at Fort Des Moines, Iowa. At Fort Des Moines, she completed her four week Basic Training course just prior to Christmas.

During this period, the WAAC was looking desperately for officers, and Anna was ideally suited to enter into the WAAC Officer Candidate School (OCS) because of her educational and athletic background. The OCS program was desegregated at Fort Des Moines in November, 1942, and in December, Anna became a candidate in the 15th Officer Class. At OCS, she was one of only three black students and was the only one to finish the course. On February 16, 1943, WAC OCS Class 15 graduated, and Third Officer Clarke was assigned to Company 8 at Fort Des Moines.

During the latter part of 1943, Anna was reassigned to the Fourth Company, Third Regiment, as a Platoon Leader. Third Officer Anna M. Clarke would go down in history as the first black WAAC assigned to command an all-white unit. On May 22, 1943, when First Officer Sarah E. Murphy and Third Officer Anna Clarke were in command of 144 enlisted WAACs, they were the first black unit assigned to the Fifth Service Command at Camp Atterbury, Indiana.

In June, 1943, Anna proceeded to WAAC Headquarters in Washington, D.C., where she served in the classification and assignment department. In the first of August, she entered the Adjutant General's School at Camp Meade, Maryland. Following the completion of training, she was once again on the move, this time a stop over in Chicago, Illinois, to assist in black WAAC recruiting efforts with fellow Kentuckian, Mary A. Bordeaux. Following her stint in Chicago, Anna made her way back to Fort Des Moines. While there, the WAAC was converted to the Women's Army Corps (WAC) as part of the Regular Army. Anna participated in ceremonies where she was appointed a First Lieutenant in the Women's Army Corps. During this time, she joined other black WAC officers in their fight to stop the army in the establishment of an all-black regiment at Fort Des Moines. The officers felt that this plan to place all blacks on post under the command of a sort of South African-style black "homeland" ran counter to the very things the United States was fighting for in the war. The officers finally convinced the headquarters to rescind the reorganization plan before it was implemented. After leaving Fort Des Moines, Anna was moved to Douglas Army Air Field.

Anna would not be in command of her unit at Douglas long before she became ill. In mid-March 1944, Anna was admitted to the post hospital, complaining of pains in her side. She was diagnosed with appendicitis, and to further complicate things it was ruptured and gangrene had started to set in. An appendectomy was performed and initially it looked as though she would make a full recovery. However, the poison of the gangrene had entered her body. Anna Mac died on April 19, 1944 of complications associated with the gangrene. ■

Mary Willie Arvin

Mary Willie Arvin was born on April 21, 1879, in Henderson County, Kentucky. In 1904, she graduated from the School of Nursing at the Owensboro City Hospital in Owensboro, Kentucky. As time passed, Mary became a general practice nurse in Memphis, Tennessee. Her stay as a general practice nurse was ended in 1917 while on a visit to Richmond, Virginia.

Mary decided to join an American hospital unit on June 11, 1917, that was preparing to go overseas. By mid-July, Nurse Arvin had joined the Harvard Unit, Base Hospital No. 5 at Dannes-Camiers, France. Base Hospital No. 5 was bombed on September 4, 1917, only a couple months after Nurse Arvin's arrival. This was the first time Mary had been under enemy fire.

The bombing of Base Hospital 5 did not stop in September 1917. On June 30, 1918, the hospital was bombed by German airplanes at Boulogne-sur-Mer. For her actions during and after the air raid, Nurse Arvin received official recognition by the three major allied nations. She received a congratulatory letter from General John J. "Black Jack" Pershing on August 28, 1918 for her deeds during the air raid. General Pershing pointed out her extraordinary skills in handling the care of her patients throughout the ordeal. General Pershing's letter was a true sign that Nurse Arvin was a dedicated member of the United States Armed Forces, but the praises did not stop there. She received the French Croix de Guerre and a certificate of commendation from the United States, which she would turn in and receive the first Purple Heart Medal ever awarded to a woman.

On March 23, 1919, Nurse Arvin returned to the United States aboard the S.S. Noordam. She decided to return to Henderson County, Kentucky a few days later. In October, Nurse Arvin was assigned as a Red Cross welfare worker in Hopkinsville, Kentucky, and on November 13, 1919, she was decorated with the Royal Red Cross, 2nd Class (Associate), by Prince Edward at the home of Perry Belmont in Washington, D.C. These commendations combined made her the most decorated Kentucky female veteran in WWI combat.

What advice would you give to a woman that is eager to be more involved through public service?

My thought on this is that most women don't think enough about serving. I don't know where we go to get their attention, but I believe the ambition and talent exists. I think women that are currently in leadership positions have to start playing a larger role in challenging other women to be more involved. Men have done a better job mentoring and developing younger men to take on leadership. The drive to succeed in public service exists, we just have to help other women believe in it and recognize they possess the talents necessary for tackling the problems that exist in their communities. At times, women are led to believe that politics is all threatening; however, I think it's an honor and a privilege to be a mayor. A positive attitude while in public service keeps one up for the challenge.

Additionally, I think that it is important for women to join organizations, such as the Rotary or the Kiwanis Club, which require them to share responsibilities with men. Getting into these male/female groups teaches women many things. Most importantly, it teaches women that they don't need to compete with men. So many women want to compete with men, but I believe to share the same successes, women need to learn to work along side men and view themselves as equals. This enables women to gain the respect of men because they will be viewed as both counterparts and significant contributors.

Finally, I would urge any woman interested in public service to always listen to those around her. Listening is 100% important for an elected official. For example, our website has my personal mobile number listed. I want constituents to call me if they have a problem; I get so tickled to hear from them. I like talking to them and really enjoy listening to their concerns.

What has been the most memorable part of your tenure as Mayor of Richmond?

I've had the best of times being mayor, and we've got a successful city. There are several things that I could tout as accomplishments, but I believe the most memorable action I've taken as Mayor was the creation of a little bus service for individuals here in Richmond. When I would walk the streets and really talked to people, I realized the number of shut-ins that were in town. It was devastating to me to think people in our community had trouble getting around town. That is why I wanted to start the bus service so these specific individuals could get out of their homes, not worry about paying a cab for transportation, and visit their friends or run errands. I guess in the big picture, the bus service isn't a big thing, but to the people it is serving, it has hugely affected their lives in a positive way.

I also am proud of our new aquatic center. The City Commission along with many others, were involved to make this center a reality. We had been trying to get a pool in Richmond for over 30 years. It has been a great addition to our area and the region. Overall, I guess I just find the everyday part of this job to be rewarding and memorable. I have so much fun with my positions and thoroughly enjoy serving this city. ■

– Kentucky Senator
 Denise Harper Angel

Organizations

The following are descriptions of some of the positions, both elected and non-elected, of the women who are featured in our directory.

Auditor of Public Accounts

The Auditor of Public Accounts must be at least 30 years old and have been a resident of Kentucky for at least 2 years prior to the election. The Auditor ensures that public resources are protected, accurately valued, properly accounted for, and effectively employed to raise the quality of life of Kentuckians.

State Senators

State Senators must be at least 30 years old, be a citizen of Kentucky, and have resided in the state at least 6 years and in the district at least 1 year prior to the election. Senators are elected for four year terms, with half the Senate elected every two years. They pass legislation, debate issues, and help allocate the proper assistance across Kentucky.

State Representatives

State Representatives must be at least 24 years old, be a citizen of Kentucky, and have resided in the state at least 2 years and in the district at least 1 year prior to election. Representatives are elected for two year terms in November following the regular session of the General Assembly. The entire House is elected at the same time. The House is the other chamber of the Kentucky General Assembly. They more or less serve the same role as the State Senators except for a few different Constitutional variances.

Court of Appeals

The Court of Appeals hears cases that involve appeals of decisions from lower courts, such as the Circuit and District Courts. Fourteen judges, two elected from seven appellate court districts, serve on the Court of Appeals. The judges are divided into panels of three to review and decide cases, with the majority determining the decision. The panels do not sit permanently in one location, but travel about the state to hear cases. Cases are not retried in the Court of Appeals. Only the record of the original court trial is reviewed, with attorneys presenting the legal issues to the court for a decision.

Circuit Court Judges

The Circuit Court is the court of general jurisdiction and hears civil matters involving more than $4,000.00. Circuit courts have jurisdiction over cases involving capital offenses and felonies, divorces, adoptions, terminations of parental rights, land dispute title problems, and contested probates of will. Circuit courts have the power to issue injunctions, writs of prohibition, writs of mandamus, and hear appeals from district courts and administrative agencies. One judge may serve more than one county within a circuit. Some circuits contain only one county but have several judges, depending on population and caseload. Circuit judges serve eight-year terms.

District Court Judges

The District Court has limited jurisdiction, which means it hears only certain types of cases. Ninety percent of all Kentuckians involved in court proceedings appear in District Court. Juvenile matters, city and county ordinances, misdemeanors, traffic offenses, probate of wills, felony preliminary hearings, and civil cases involving $4,000 or less are heard in District Court. Guardianship and conservatorship for disabled persons are in District Court, as well as voluntary and involuntary mental commitments and cases relating to domestic violence and abuse. If a district has a high population and a heavy caseload, it may consist of only one county but have several judges. In less populated areas, a district may encompass more than one county, but have only one judge who travels between the counties to hear cases.

Circuit Clerks

The Circuit Clerks serve both the circuit and district courts. One clerk is elected from each county. They are the administrative and clerical officers of the judicial system. They are prohibited from practicing law. Responsibilities of the circuit court clerks are: preparing bonds and approving sureties thereon; administering oaths and affidavits; maintaining records, files and dockets; collecting fees, fines, and bond money; and paying jurors, commissioners and witnesses. They also issue drivers licenses, summon jurors, and operate tape recording equipment. In the absence of all judicial officers, the circuit clerk may issue warrants prepared by the Commonwealth or County Attorney.

Commonwealth Attorney

Commonwealth Attorney's are the legal counsel and prosecutors for the Commonwealth of Kentucky. They represent the state in legal matters and serve as prosecutors in matters involving felonies.

"In politics, if you want anything said, ask a man; if you want anything done, ask a woman."

– Margaret Thatcher

County Attorney

The County Attorney is part of the unified and integrated prosecutorial system under the Attorney General. The duties of the office can be classified as the prosecutorial function, county legal adviser, and miscellaneous duties for the state and county. The attorney must attend the district court in the county and prosecute all violations of criminal and penal law within the court’s jurisdiction.

County Clerks

The County Clerk office has several duties that are varied in nature, such as issuing, registering, recording and keeping records of various legal instruments, voter registration and purgation, election duties, and tax duties. The clerk possesses the power of notary public in the exercise of the official functions of the office of clerk within the county and acts as a licensing agent for the government.

County Commissioners/Magistrates

County Commissioners and Magistrates serve similar roles in various facets, but are different in others. County Commissioners hold no other powers or duties outside of those held as a member of the fiscal court; however, they may perform marriages, if authorized. Magistrates also serve on the county’s fiscal court and can perform marriage if authorized. The position of magistrate is a constitutional position that must be filled, but County Commissioners exist depending on the form of county government.

County Jailer

The County Jailer has custody, rule, and charge of the county jail and all persons in the jail. The jailer must maintain the upkeep of the jail and serve as the prisoners’ means of transportation. The jailer must develop a monthly report to be delivered to the Department of Corrections and has the statutory responsibility of preparing the jail budget.

County Judge/Executive

The County Judge Executive serves as the chief executive of the individual county and operates as the presiding officer of the fiscal court, the county legislative body. The Judge Executive is assigned the primary responsibility for the administration of the county government, including the financial administration.

County PVA

The County PVA must make the assessment of all property in the county, prepare property assessment records, and perform such duties relating to assessment as may be prescribed by law or by the Revenue Cabinet. The PVA is subject to the direction, instruction, and supervision of the Revenue Cabinet.

County Sheriff

The County Sheriff serves a four year term and must be of at least 24 years of age. The official duties of the position fall into four categories: tax collection, election duties, services to courts, and law enforcement. The sheriff is one of four peace officers in the county government and has the authority to make arrests.

School Board Members/Superintendents

School board members serve as key policy makers for school districts and tailor their policies to work within national and state guidelines. These members are key components to the community because they serve as advocates for children and proper education. Superintendents are the chief official of the educational system within a given district. These individuals have the authority to create policy and supervise the district’s actions. Combined with the school board, superintendents work towards allocating money appropriately and establishing guidelines, both educationally and socially, for students to follow. School board members and superintendents work towards establishing a structured environment to assist children in reaching their maximum potential.

Mayor

The Mayor serves as the official head of government within a city. The mayoral tasks include formulating policy, delivering city services, and establishing priorities for the entire city. Mayors must coordinate and monitor policies to ensure they meet the goals of the community. Generally, mayors work with city councils or city commissioners and preside over city council meetings.

Councilmembers/Commissioners

Councilmembers/Commissioners hold a part time position under a Council/Manager form of government. They compose the legislative body of the City. The members adopt the laws and policies for their local government. They are usually responsible for appropriating funds to operate City government, adopting a budget to guide expenditures and revenue, and defining the powers and duties of appointed officers and employees.

“Government, politics, and elected office offers individuals great opportunities to learn and to give. Whether or not you decide to run for an office, do not give up your voice in your community. Use your government and your political party to be heard.”

– Kentucky Representative
Joni Jenkins

Gubernatorial Appointees to Boards and Commissions

Service as a gubernatorial appointee is an honor the Governor can bestow upon citizens of the Commonwealth. These individuals selected to serve on the various boards and commissions in our Commonwealth aid the Governor by assisting in the development of ideas for certain policy areas. The boards and commissions delve into an array of thoughts, policies, programs, and other important facets of the lives of Kentuckians.

College Presidents

College Presidents serve as the chief executive officer of one of Kentucky's institutions of higher education. Responsibilities vary among institutions.

Leadership Kentucky

Through a series of seven monthly, two-day sessions, held in various locations in the state, participants are educated about the state of Kentucky and its challenges. They meet and talk with Kentucky's current leaders and through a systematic educational program, explore the state's opportunities, needs, and resources.
