A joint Committee of both Branches of the General assembly Waited on the Governor, and informed him that they had finished their Legislative business, and were ready to adjourn without day.

And that the Committee were directed to enquire whether he had any further Communications to make. The Governor replied that he had no further communications to make to the two houses.

The portion of the committee from the House of Representatives, then delivered to the Governor the following Valedictory Resolution viz

Resolved: That this house composed of the immediate Representatives of the people cannot close its Session without bidding an affectionate farewell to the venerable and Patriotic chief Magistrate of this commonwealth. The restraint imposed by the constitution upon the affection and confidence of his fellow citizens, combined with his advanced age, renders it improbable that they will ever again be associated with him, in their Relative Representative capacities in Labours for the Common good. The constitution constrains him to retire from the Executive Chair, when the Term for which he was elected, shall have expired, But he will retire with the proud consciousness of having devoted his distinguished talents and strenuous exertions to the good of Mankind and of his country throughout a long life. that country will long remember with sentiments of affectionate gratitude, his devotion to the cause of liberty, in the field, and in the Cabinet. and his military services and sufferings in his Youth of the life during the War of the Revolution — his voluntary services at the head of the Kentucky Militia at mature age, during the Indian War, and his distinguished services at a More advanced age during the late War, will long continue green on the memory of his grateful Country.

"He cannot fail to remain identified in the memory of his country with the victory on the Thames, and the still More Splendid victory on the plains of New orleans, where he commanded the Kentucky Militia, on the ever memorable eighth of January, nor can his vindication of that small portion of the Militia, which was engaged on the opposite side of the Mississippi on that day, from the unappreciable imputation of having ingloriously fled, ever be forgotten by the people of Kentucky.

8 2/4 mr 8 1/2 While they cherish those sentiments of Chivalrous pride which have heretofore characterised them.

The aid which his compatriots derived from the exertions of his services and enriched mind in the formation of the constitution, and code of their common country, cannot be readily forgotten. His dignified and equable administration of the Government as its chief Magistrate commands the approbation of his countrymen. The vigilance with which he has discharged the duties of that highly important station whether regard be had to his communications to the Legislature in relation to the great and essential rights of the State, or to his minor official agencies, entitles him to the approving respect of his countrymen: with the expression of the wish that the hand of a Kind Providence may smoothe the slope of the remnant of his days, and that he may enjoy the consolations, which the retrospect of his distinguished public services, associated with the plaudits of his countrymen cannot fail to afford him, they bid him an affectionate adieu

In reply to which, the Governor transmitted to the House of Representatives, by the Secretary of State the following Response. Viz.

Gentlemen of the House of Representatives

Your resolution politely handed to me on this day, has excited in my mind Sensations, which it would be unjust to you, and do violence to my own feelings were I to suppress. Next to a consciousness of having discharged every public trust confided to me, to the utmost of my abilities, for the good of my country, is the knowledge that those services have been appreciated by my Countrymen, the immediate Representatives of the people amongst whom most of those services have been performed, and many of whom have participated with me in the performance of them.

You have kindly mentioned with approbation my communications to the General Assembly; the allusion is presumed to be made to that part of the message delivered at the opening of the present Session, in relation to the great and essential rights of the State in which the measures you have adopted manifest so decided a concurrence. I submitted the subject under the conviction that it was my imperious duty to warn my country of all approaching dangers especially of those which advanced with a silent tread, & did then honestly believe, and am now more confirmed in that opinion: that the decision of the Supreme Federal Court, on our occupying claimant laws, as well as the late decisions of the Court of appeals of Kentucky, are erroneous on principle and not warranted by the letter of the constitution of the United States; and if acquiesced in will not only lead to a consolidation of the Government but sap the foundation of civil liberty. Our Government in its organization may be aptly compared to a large Machine composed of many parts; each operating in its own sphere, but all tending to promote one great object; if any one part runs contrary to the main designs the Machine must fail to furnish the hopes of the framers.

The great object with the framers of our government was to secure to the people of the United States civil liberty, the security of life, liberty, and property; to effect this, the Sovereign power was wisely retained in the hands of the people, every department, as well as every agent of government, must be subject to this controling power, or it does not answer the end for which it was retained; the frequency of elections is the proper medium by which this power can be exercised, but take from one Legislature the power of repealing or modifying the acts of a former Legislature, and this great and essential right is lost to the people at least to all practicable and useful purposes:
it becomes a nullity — laws are enacted and intended for the good of the community; when they cease to produce that good they ought to be repealed.

The Course you have pursued with respect to the decisions of the Supreme Federal Court is, I have no doubt, the correct one, And authorises the hope, that it will not be regarded lightly by the Congress of the United States, The decision of the Court of appeals of this State, is now fairly before the people the exclusive Sovereigns, they will decide in their Sovereign capacity, and by a due and vigilant exercise of the elective franchise, give efficacy to their will.

Accept of my sincere thanks for your kind and highly consoling approbation of my conduct, And my best wishes for your health and happy meeting with your families & friends

Yours Sincerely John Adams

" 10th The Governor transmitted to the President of the United States, the Resolutions of the last Legislature of Kentucky "Approbatory of the course of the President of the United States, in relating to the Struggle of the Greeks and South Americans for freedom" and in relation to the administration of the General Government" in the following addrs. viz.

" "Commonwealth of Kentucky.

Hes Excy Executive Department.

James Monroe Frankfort.

President of the Jany 10: 1824.

U. States.

Sir,

I have the honor to transmit to your Excellency, a copy of the Resolutions of the General assembly declaratory of the high approbation of Kentucky, of your administration and political sentiments,

In performing this agreeable duty, I should do injustice to my own opinion and feelings if I were to omit the expression of my unequivocal concurrence in the just sentiments of the State; — The World has an interest in the liberty of nations and rights of man and no nation a deeper one than the american people. That it was just and wise for the U. States to recognize the Independence of the Southern Republics, when the fact had been fully proven can be questioned by none. The wisdom, in the caution observed in this measure heretofore decidedly approved is now more strikingly manifest.

For the cause of Heroic Greece no American can feel indifferent. That she may be triumphant over her barbarian foes, and whatever may obstruct her resurrection in all the glory of her illustrious ancestry must be the fervent prayer of every friend to mankind.

That your Excellency, whenever just, will acknowledge their Independence, your public acts, and well known sentiments, furnish the fullest assurance

The Watchfulness you have displayed, over the Royal Aristocracy, grasping at the rule of the World

1824 can elicit but one sentiment, throughout the Union.
Jan: 11 The U States cannot stand idle spectators of the triumphs of this confederacy against the rights of nations until the dictatorial decree is proclaimed directly against ourselves. Every consideration of magnanimity and prudence which prompts us to meet them in their march over the Independence and liberties of our Southern brethren.

The emphatic recognition of the Exclusive and effective Sovereignty of the people and consequent practical responsibility of every organ of delegated authority by so exalted a personage, could not fail to call forth the applause of every genuine friend to the principles of the Union. —

These are the principles for which the american people fought. They are the alpha and omega of the Federal and State constitutions. The touch stone of every construction upon them.

With the confident hope that your administration may be terminated as gloriously as it has been hitherto conducted. I present my best wishes for your political and individual prosperity.

I am. with respect.

Your ob. Sert.
John Adair
