Dear Sir :

My uncle, John S Nugent, an old veteran, who has been drawing pension for several years died a few days ago. His check for $36. for the back quarter pay, came the morning he was buried. He left absolutely no estate. This check belongs to his estate, but the amount is entirely too small for an administrator to be appointed, and his widow has been dead for years.

Would it be alright for his son, with him he had been living, to endorse this check and use it for expenses. ?

Yours truly,

A M Nugent

Mr B F Day, Commissioner,

Dear Sir :

Relative to my former letter concerning the late John S Nugent, in which you asked for the exact date of his death. He died on Feby 14th 1928. So the amount due him on unpaid pension can be dated accordingly.

As to the suggestion that you offered to save an Administrator being appointed, we have secured a written statement from the two other heirs agreeing that one son O T Nugent, should attend to all business, and attach the statement signed. I know personally, that these are the only surviving children, so there can come no trouble.

And as stated before he left absolutely no estate, no even enough to pay funeral expenses. Today I had O T Nugent endorse the last Quarter's check for $36. and sent it in, our bank guaranting endorsement.

Please find out due and send to O T Nugent, address, Crutchfield, Ky, R F D #2.

Yours truly,

Cashier.
